Education and bio:

I began my studies at Lund University in January 2007. I attained my B.A. in practical philosophy in May 2010 and my B.A. in theoretical philosophy in March 2011 (both with distinction). I completed my M.A. in practical philosophy in February 2012 (also with distinction) and enrolled in the Ph. D program in September that same year. I completed my PhD in May 2018 under the supervision of Prof. Toni Rønnow-Rasmussen and Prof. Wlodek Rabinowicz. I was awarded a generous research grant by the Swedish Research Council in December that same year, allowing me to conduct postdoctoral research at Lund University and the University of Humboldt in Berlin for a period of up to three years. In the meantime, I continue to be active in Lund as a lecturer for the introductory course in moral philosophy, as well as the ground course for academic studies at Campus Helsingborg.
