

Genetics, Normality and Democracy

– a problematic for the 21:st Century

Seminar 1

October 27, 2008

Location: Department of Political Science, Lund University: Hall 366
(Conference Room, 3:rd floor)

- 14.15-15.15 Genetics, Normality and Democracy – a problematic for the 21:st century
- 15.15-15.45 Coffee
- 15.45-16.45 Adam Hedgecoe, Sussex: The Politics of Personalised Medicine
- 16.45-17.30 Concluding discussion

Seminar 2

November 17, 2008

Location: Department of Political Science, Lund University: Hall 233 (2:nd floor)

- 14.15-15.15 Angus Clarke, Cardiff: Genes, Knowledge and Autonomy. Whose Knowledge? What Knowledge? When?
- 15.15-15.45 Coffee
- 15.45-16.45 Herbert Gottweis, Vienna: Operating Biobanks: Towards the Governance of Disappearing Bodies
- 16.45-17.30 Concluding discussion

Seminar 3

December 8, 2008

Location: Department of Political Science, Lund University: Hall 366 (3:rd floor)

- 14.15-15.15 Lene Koch, Copenhagen: The Politics of Life – past and present use of genetic knowledge
- 15.15-15.45 Coffee
- 15.45-16.45 Brian Wynne, Lancaster: Genetic Risk – expert and lay perceptions (title not confirmed)
- 16.45-17.30 Concluding discussion

Genetics and Democracy – a research collaboration between:
Department of Political Science
Department of Clinical Genetics, Lund University and University Hospital
Department of European Ethnology
Department of Cell and Organism Biology (Genetics)

